

NONPROFIT ADMINISTRATION at Levin.

At Levin, you can learn to build cities, lead communities, and change your environment while immersed in a vibrant and engaging urban landscape. Learn to change the world at Levin.

The Nonprofit Administration major is designed for students aspiring to enter the fields of nonprofit management and human services and for those currently employed in these areas. It provides management skills and training directed toward mobilizing community assets and capacity building.

Students learn how to solve complex issues that affect nonprofit organizations, effectively engage and manage volunteers and professionals, and discover how public policy decisions affect daily life.

Our graduates work in children and family service agencies, foundations, and other organizations with charitable and human services missions. In addition to professional careers, this degree prepares students for law school and graduate study.

Accelerated 4+1 program available (BA + Master of Nonprofit Administration and Leadership).
